

KINESIOLOGY (BS) - EXERCISE SCIENCE CONCENTRATION

Program Overview

The B.S Kinesiology degree with a concentration in Exercise Science is designed to accommodate a broad range of student interests and professional goals including careers in the health and fitness industry and graduate work in physical therapy, occupational therapy, exercise science / physiology, or other allied health professions. The program offers thorough and rigid core of theoretical and practical courses balanced with flexibility through program electives.

Career Opportunities

The Exercise Science concentration of the B.S. Kinesiology degree is designed to accommodate a broad range of student interests and professional goals including careers in the health and fitness industry or graduate work in physical therapy, occupational therapy, or exercise science.